Distinguishing Features of Evening Cloak Is Its Length and Lining—New Mantles Voluminous—New Pose Resembles That of Women in Old Dutch Pictures—Standing as If Bent Backward—Recipe For Large, White Loaf Cake—Golden Cake for Receptions and Weddings.

LENGTH AND LINING OF EVENING CLOAKS

One of the distinguishing features of the evening cloak just now is its length, which exceeds that of the summer cloak, and another its lining, which in the case of a lovely trifle, light as air, is made of lace flounce.

Here indeed is an extravagant method, but an elegant one, of using lace.

The new mantles are more voluminous than those that went before, and the new figure is indicated by the girdle that falls low, but through which the draperies are pulled up, giving the garment the aspect accorded to those worn by good men in ancient pictures.

Velvet broche, gauze arranged one layer over another, flowered and printed crepe, all are used for the mantle, and for is, of course, a frequently employed ornament, making the girdle in some cases with pronounced success.

But apart from the lining of the evening mantle, the lace flounce is a most interesting feature of dress. While conjuring with the frilled skirt, the designers have fallen victims to the allurements of the deep single lace flounce, with this result, that it is figuring as the petticoat drapery over which a tunic is posed and the tablier falling over a satin foundation.

One distinguishing feature, it appears, must be present in the arrangement of the tunic, tablier, or flounce. It must pluck up in front, so that the peculiar pose of the figure may be remarked. One is reminded by the new pose of women in old Dutch pictures, standing as if bent backward, a method of deportment that would have been reprimanded most strongly by teachers of calisthenics years ago.

Everything—the sash, the cinchure, the basque—accentuates the new figure. A frock, obviously friskish, one of those excursions into the bizarre that appear at the dress parade to stir up discussion, has a skirt made like a Dutchman's trousers.

You know the way the typical Dutchman stands? Let the mannequin who wears it copy his attitude, and the likeness to the breeches, full round the waist and with great loose pockets at the sides, becomes clear, although it is all rendered in daintiest lace, plucked up at the sides, wired lightly, and fixed with pointed bows.

Large White Loaf Cake.

One cup butter, one-half cup milk, two cups sugar, four teaspoons baking powder, three and one-half cups flour, whites of seven eggs, one tea-spoonful vanilla or rose, or one-half tea-spoon almond flavoring.

Cream the butter and sugar. Mix and sift together the flour and baking powder, and measure the milk. If one is mixing the cake alone, beat the egg whites to a stiff froth; then combine the flour and milk with the sugar and butter mixture. Add first a little milk, then a little flour. Repeat until the flour and milk are all used. This method prevents curdling. Some put all the baking powder into the last one-half cup of flour. If one has everything measured, the pan ready and the fire right before beginning to combine the dry with the wet mixtures, it need be only a very short time before the cake is in the oven.

In making cake where the whites are beaten separately it is desirable to have a second person beating the whites while the other ingredients are being combined. Cut and fold the stiffly beaten whites into the cake mixture. Blend the two carefully, and put at once into a pan lined with paper and well buttered. Smooth the mixture toward the edges and away from the center of the pan.

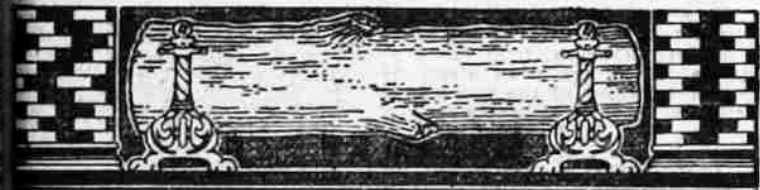

This, with careful measuring, will insure a cake even over the top. It may be iced with any desired icing. This cake may also be baked in layers and filled as desired.

For receptions, weddings, or any function where two kinds of cake is desired, a large golden cake may be made with the egg yolks left from the white cake. Bake in the same sized dripping pan and cut in squares.

SAD NEWS IS BROKEN TO POPE

His Holiness Deeply Affected by the Death of Cardinal Rampolla.

Rome, Italy, Dec. 17.—The death of Cardinal Rampolla, former papal secretary of state, was not made known to Pope Pius X. until this morning. Cardinal Merry Del Val and Monsignor Giovanni Bressan, the pope's private secretary, went to see His Holiness at an early hour intending to break the sad news as gently as possible. But when the pope heard the name of Cardinal Rampolla coupled with the word "indisposition" he grew pale and begged them to tell him the truth without hesitation, as anxiety and uncertainty affected him more than anything else. The two prelates then told him that Rampolla was dead.

As recently as Saturday the pope had received Cardinal Rampolla, who was then apparently in his usual good health, and spoke at length about many affairs.

Greatest Man in Church. The pope later issued the following statement:

"Cardinal Rampolla was one of the greatest men in the church. He had become even greater since he retired from state affairs."

His Holiness ordered that the highest honors should be paid to the deceased cardinal.

On Sunday evening last, Cardinal Rampolla received Silas McBee, former editor of the Churchman, and his wife of New York and discussed with them the question of bringing about a better understanding between all religious sections.

Cardinal Rampolla was the closest collaborator of Pope Leo XIII. in the movement for the reunion of the Christian churches. When Pope Leo was dying a cablegram was received in Rome saying that the American Protestant congregations were praying for his recovery. Cardinal Rampolla took the dispatch immediately to the dying pontiff, who instructed Cardinal Rampolla to write that the message had been a great consolation to him, as it had proved that his scheme for the reunion of the church was not a dream.

Yesterday morning Cardinal Rampolla went to St. Peter's to inspect the work of restoration of the choir. Later he felt a general indisposition which developed into profound prostration. He refused, however, to allow his secretary to remain with him all night in the little palace behind St. Peter's where he had lived since he left the secretariat of state.

Cardinal Rampolla died at his condition, consulted a physician. The latter visited the cardinal, but discovered no serious symptoms and ordered him to take a complete rest. Later in the evening the cardinal grew worse and had great difficulty in breathing. He sent a message hurriedly for his secretary and physician but when they arrived the cardinal was dead.

The physician declared death was due to angina pectoris. The cardinal's secretary performed the final rites of the church and then sent for the prelate's sister, Baroness Carolina Pezzana, and informed Cardinal Merry Del Val.

It had been thought in many quarters that Cardinal Rampolla was the most likely candidate for the papal chair in case of the death of the pope.

WIDOWS PLEAD FOR DEAD HUSBAND'S PAY

New York, Dec. 17.—Since the late 70's when 20,000 employees at the Brooklyn navy yard worked two hours overtime each working day for four years on a promise of extra pay, annual meetings of the men, their widows, children and other heirs, have been held to discuss means for collecting the claims varying from $200 to $1000.

There were originally 2000 claimants. At yesterday's meeting only 50 attended, mainly widows. Although these claims have been approved by the United States court of claims and twice endorsed by the senate, the house has failed to take action on them.

The latest move of the claimants is an appeal addressed to Secretary Daniels of the navy department urging him to call to the attention of president Wilson the validity of the claims, that action on them may be pushed in the house.

New York, Dec. 17.—The steamer Tennessee, of the Bay State line, reached her pier here today in tow of a tug with about 20 feet of the port rail torn away, several state rooms smashed in and the pilot house damaged. On board the Tennessee were 150 passengers and a crew of 45. At the time of the collision most of the passengers were in the dining saloon. No one was hurt.

AMERICAN BASEBALL SEVERELY CRITICIZED

San Francisco, Dec. 17.—Baseball as played in America is severely criticized by a member of the Australian cricket team which recently toured the United States and Canada. A Sydney paper, containing an interview with the cricketer on the return of the team to Australia, has just been received here.

"Candidly," the Australian athlete is quoted, "I don't like baseball as played in America. Baseball in Australia is a fine game, played in the spirit of our cricket. But that spirit is not known in American baseball, which is a professional game and associated with bluffing of a character foreign to the Australian and English ideas of sport. There is, of course, big money in it there; but if baseball is ever to become a big game here, it will need to be divorced from the spirit which pervades its American atmosphere."

MITCHELL CALLS FOR MEETING OF LEADERS

New York, Dec. 17.—A conference of the leaders of the political organizations that took part in the fusion municipal campaign has been called for next week by John Purroy Mitchell, mayor-elect, to discuss the appointment of a successor to Rhineclander Waldo, police commissioner.

This course was adopted by Mr. Mitchell, it is said, because of the refusal of his close friends and advisers to suggest the name of a man for police commissioner, although endorsements for other places have been numerous.

Neither the Republican or Progressive leaders will submit a candidate, although both are reported to be willing to do so if legislation giving the commissioner a longer term and increased power is passed. Mr. Mitchell is said to be willing to make a fight for both of these things after his inauguration on January 1.

DELAWARE HAS THE VERMONT IN TOW

New York, Dec. 17.—Wireless messages received early today at Sandy Hook from the battleship Vermont, which was disabled last week when she broke a shaft, state that on the morning of December 14, she was forced to reduce speed to eight knots because of additional trouble. Some of the holding rivets of the port truss borings were carried away, the message stated, and on the following day she was forced to stop and request aid from the battleship Delaware, which has been detailed to accompany the disabled vessel to Norfolk, Va. The Delaware has taken the Vermont in tow and is proceeding at a three knot speed. The messages stated that repairs cannot be made before arrival at Norfolk.

At noon yesterday the Vermont reported her position as 507 miles east of Cape Henry, Va.

IF KIDNEYS AND BLADDER BOTHER

Take Salts to flush Kidneys and neutralize irritating acids.

Kidney and Bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it often remains to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in voiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, it is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs which then act normally again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant effervescent lithia-water drink, which quickly relieves bladder trouble.—Advertisement
